A 5-year-old girl named Mursheda Akter Suhada studies at Children's Garden School. Her father's name is Kala Mia, and her mother's name is Shayrin Begum.

Mursheda is now one of the active students at the school, but unfortunately, her words are not as clear as it is supposed to be. As a result, she was not open in front of everyone at the beginning, and teachers also struggled to understand her words. However, she is currently one of the energetic students who is good at singing, dancing, and poetry, and always expresses a keen interest in taking part in all activities. Unfortunately, people find it challenging to understand her as her words are not very clear, so teachers always encourage her to practice tongue twisters to break down the barrier and make her more comfortable speaking, they even take extra care and consult with her parents to assist her practice at home.

According to her mother, she can now communicate with everyone more easily and her words are clearer than before. In addition, she is aware of good hygiene practices and shares what she learns at school regarding health hygiene with her family. Teachers mention Mursheda as one of the promising, agile, and a little misbehaving (though by which she always entertains the class) students. She is going to be a valuable asset for the country if she overcomes this little barrier and continues her education in a good environment.
